

Aftermath: development and payment operation

Source: September 2019 Aftermath launch announcement; June 2020 Stripe correspondence preserved in Rovidx's mailbox.

Selected verbatim excerpts. Personal contacts, email addresses, account identifiers, customer details and unrelated content are omitted.

Aftermath launch announcement - September 2019

After a year in development we are finally ready to open Aftermath to the public. We are so excited to bring you on this journey with us!

Stripe processing-fee explanation - June 2020

So upon further investigating the account, you're currently charged 0.5% for any recurring charges processed on your account (in addition to the processing fees charged separately).

Stripe request concerning a payment reserve - June 2020

In order to remove or reduce your reserve, we'll need to see documentation of your business' past processing history from the payments processor you used prior to Stripe.

The launch announcement documents development before the December 2020 signed license. The processor correspondence documents account operation, fees and reserve requirements. It is not a reconciliation of all revenue, costs, refunds or payments.